The following order gives some of his history:

"GENERAL ORDERS, No. 5.
HEADQUARTERS, CORPS OF ENGINEERS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 29, 1870.

It has become the painful duty of the Brigadier General Commanding to announce to the Corps of Engineers the death of a brother officer, Major Chauncey B. Reese, Bvt. Brig. Gen. U. S. Army, who died of yellow fever at Mobile, Ala., on the 22d instant. Major Reese was graduated at the Military Academy on the 1st of July 1859, promoted to be a 2nd Lieut. of engineers, Feb. 20, 1861, and advancing through the grades of 1st Lieutenant and Captain, was promoted to the rank of Major, March 7, 1867. During the late war he was made Major, Lieutenant Colonel, and Colonel, by brevet, for gallant and distinguished services during the campaign through Georgia; and was made a Brigadier General, by brevet, on the 13th of March 1865, 'for faithful and meritorious services during the campaign in Georgia and the Carolinas.' By his death the Corps of Engineers has lost an officer distinguished for his intelligence, his conduct, and his earnest devotion to duty. As a testimonial of respect for the deceased, the officers of the Corps will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days. By the command of Brig. Gen. Humphrey.

I. B. WHEELER, Major of Engineers."

Vol. Infantry; was promoted to be sergeant-major, 14 May 1863; and was killed at Volusa, Fla., 5 Feb. 1865, having reached the rank of lieutenant, and the position of adjutant of the brigade. His body was recovered, and buried at Mountain Grove Cemetery, Bridgeport, with military and masonic honors.

The following is taken from The Military and Civil History of Connecticut during the war of 1861–65, pp. 733–34:

"The Colonel was wounded and taken prisoner. The Adjutant, Lieut.

[1] For her ancestry, see note to No. 13138.

H. Whitney Chatfield, was instantly killed in a hand-to-hand encounter with the enemy; and Capts. Wilson French, and Frederick C. Betts, were taken prisoners. The brave young Chatfield fell, shot through and through the body. He was in the act of cutting his way through the rebels when he received his mortal wound. He died as he had lived, a courageous soldier, and an honor to the State and our country.

"Adjutant Henry Whitney Chatfield went out as a private in the Seventeenth, at the age of eighteen. Being a young man of education, he was detached for service under Adjutant Wilcoxson, and afterwards at the headquarters of Adjutant-Gen. Weisenburg, where he was a great favorite. He was promoted to be Adjutant for his distinguished gallantry at Chancellorsville. At Gettysburgh, Lieut.-Col. Fowler was shot by his side; Chatfield's horse was killed, his haversack torn in pieces, and a Revolutionary sword at his side broken into fragments; yet he was unharmed. While at Morris Island, he volunteered with the officers of the brigade to storm Fort Sumter when its defenders were bewildered by the first crash of Gilmore's batteries. In Florida, he was Adjutant of the brigade. Gen. Noble writes of him, 'The loss of young Chatfield was sadly felt by a large circle of friends, in and out of the army. He was a true man and a brave soldier, who served from conviction of duty and patriotic devotion. With a heart true as steel, and brave as the bravest, there was a charm of genial gentleness which attracted all and made him friends wherever he went.'"

[1] For his ancestry, in the line of his paternal grandmother, Maria Bronson (Murray) Livingston, see the pedigree opposite. His progenitors, on the Livingston side, are enumerated in the pedigree facing p. 913. To the names and facts there given, we now add the following, which have reached us since the former pedigree was printed.

MAGDALEN KOLLOCK was born about 1724; married (1) at Philadelphia, 10 Oct 1745, Jasper McCall, eldest son of George McCall, the first of the name in Phil.; married (2) by Rev. Richard Peters, then Secretary of the Province of Pennsylvania, and afterwards rector of Christ Church, Phil., 27 May 1747, to JOHN SWIFT, collector of the Port of Phil., 1752 to 1771; and died at "Croyden Lodge," Bucks Co., Pa., 27 March 1790, aged 67 years. Her daughter, ALICE SWIFT, was born at Philadelphia, 20 Feb. 1750–1; was baptized in Christ Church, 20 Ap. 1752; and married ROBERT CAMBRIDGE LIVINGSTON in the Winter of 1779–80. Magdalen Kollock was the younger daughter (by his first wife) of

JACOB KOLLOCK, a man of good education and a very successful merchant. He was born about 1693; was commissioned, in 1727, a Justice of the Peace, and Register of Wills for Sussex County; was soon after chosen Representative from Lewes in the Assembly of the Three Lower Counties; and was annually re-elected to that office until his death, a period of forty years, during five of which (1760–5) he occupied the Speaker's chair. In addition to his seat in the Assembly, he held for nearly the same length of time the offices of President, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Treasurer of the County, a Trustee of the Loan Office, and Clerk of the Orphans' Court. He was also Colonel of the Sussex regiment of militia. During the last forty years of his life, there was not in the three lower counties a more prominent or more influential man. He died at Lewes, 7 Feb. 1772, in his 80th. year. His first wife was ALICE PHILLIPS, of a Boston family. He married (2) at Philadelphia, 4 Nov. 1730, Margaret Ellis, dau. of Robert Ellis, an intimate friend and correspondent of Gen. Oglethorpe, who seems also to have acted as Oglethorpe's agent in Philadelphia in connection with the colonization of Georgia. She survived her husband many years, and died at Lewes. Her will was proven 8 Feb. 1790. Jacob Kollock was the second son of JACOB KOLLOCK, who first appears in Sussex County (now in the State of Delaware) at the March term of the County Court (1680) as an applicant for a grant of land. In 1693 he was a Grand Juror. From 1698 to 1720 his name frequently occurs as a purchaser of land in Sussex County, and occasionally during the same period in Philadelphia also. He appears as a grantor of property in the neighborhood of Lewes in deeds dated 1692–5–6, 1704–15–19–20, and is generally styled "of Lewes, Cooper," but sometimes "Merchant." His will, dated 30 Dec. 1720, and proved at Georgetown, 14 March 1720–1, mentions his wife MARY and seven children. See The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, VIII, 184–5.
